Business Overview

Timeline and Projects

At Bunkasha, we pride ourselves on our ability to expand our business in response to trends and reader needs. We are prolific publishers in the manga industry. Our focus is publishing manga aimed at adult women, but we are continuing to expand into other genres. We also publish informational magazines, including women's fashion magazines and automobile magazines.

History

Established as Nihonbunkasha in Marunouchi, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo

Changed name to Bunkasha Co., Ltd.

Concluded capital and business alliance with Nippon Sangyo Suishin Kiko Ltd. (NSSK)

Launched its own comic website called Manga Yomonga

Beaglee made Bunkasha Holdings Co., Ltd. (currently, Bunkasha Group Co., Ltd.) a subsidiary

Turning point 1

1990s: Growth of comic market targeting women

In the 1990s, new genres emerged (comics for ladies and four-panel manga, etc.) unlike the conventional manga for young people and girls through the growth of readership who enjoyed girls manga in the 1970s and expansion of the convenience store market.

Evolution of Bunkasha's manga magazines

1990s

Early 2000s

4-panel manga

Magazines with ladies comics

Magazines in boys love genre

Magazines in teen love genre

▶ Among the first in the industry to publish comics for women, establishing a strong presence in the genre

Turning point 2

Early 2000s: Bunkasha begins digitalization

Feature phone era

- Collaborated with e-bookstores and e-agencies to make inroads into the e-book market from an early stage
- Acquired DTP printing know-how and transferred it to the creation of files for e-comics
- Among the first in the industry to develop contracts with writers compatible with e-books

Smartphone and tablet era

- Implemented measures for expansion of single-story comic distribution and digitalization, including born-digital works and simultaneously distributed works, etc.
- Launched Manga Yomonga, a proprietary comic website

▶ Became a pioneer in expanding its e-book business

Business Overview

Specialties Manga

- We specialize in manga aimed at adult women, with a proven track record in digital publication.
- Many titles are easy to read, self-contained stories that are well-suited for digital publication.
- We also publish longer, serialized titles that draw readers in and compel them to buy the next chapter.

Examples of our publications

Ladies' comics

Other world (isekai) light-novels

Steamy women's manga (SHOJO comics)

Boys Love (BL)

Informational Magazines

- Edgy, one of a kind informational magazines (e.g. fashion and automobile)

Own the rights for several highly-acclaimed titles across the "ladies' comics," "TL," "BL," and "isekai light novel" genres
Also publish women's fashion and automobile informational magazines

Weakest of the Four Heavenly Kings,
Now Reborn and Seeking a Quiet Life 1
/Niko Fujii┘Kenkyo na sakuru, riritto

This title's popularity has earned it the honor of being the label's first title to go into reprint. Although it's marketed at men, its accessible art style makes it a hit even with women. With a title and setting based on the Japanese meme "weakest of the Big Four", the series' protagonist breathes life into the concept with youthful charm that's already won readers over.
